AT THE END OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY,
THE SOVIET UNION AND UNITED STATES WERE
AT THE HEIGHT OF THEIR COMPETITION
FOR DEVELOPING SPACE TECHNOLOGY.
AMERICA FELT IT WAS SUPERIOR BECAUSE IT
HAD ACHIEVED THE FIRST SUCCESSFUL MOON EXPLORATION,
BUT AFTER CAREFUL SCRUTINY
OF THE VIDEO FOOTAGE FROM THE EXPEDITION,
ITS AUTHENTICITY CAME TO BE DOUBTED,
AND SINCE THE SOVIET UNION MANAGED
TO SUCCESSFULLY OPERATE ITS OWN SPACE STATION,
IT BECAME THE TRUE LEADER IN SPACE TECHNOLOGY.

A child wearing a space suit is standing in a futuristic, brightly lit space station corridor. The child is holding a red rectangular object. The corridor has a curved ceiling with various panels and lights. In the foreground, there is a large, white, irregularly shaped object that looks like a piece of paper or a sign.
